Memoir Writing Group Meeting at Library

A memoir writing group will meet at the Effingham Public Library on Tuesday, Jan. 3 at 1 p.m. in the Luttrell Room.

Focused on writing about their life story for their family and friends or just for themselves, this new writing group welcomes newcomers and all level of writers. Typically meeting for two hours, participants are encouraged to bring writing that they've worked on to share with the group.

At each meeting possible writing prompts are shared. Participants are encouraged to consider various aspects of their life story by exploring topics like: "Your Relationship to Nature." The writing prompt or assignment to prepare for the January meeting is to write about "A Trip You've Taken." Each member may read their writing aloud.

During the meeting, participants also have 15 to 20 minutes to write about another topic that will be drawn from an envelope of prompt ideas. It, too, will be shared with the group.

Registration Required.

To register, call the library at 217-342-2464 x1, email info@effinghamlibrary.org or register online at www.effinghamlibrary.org
