Community Area Service Providers met on Tuesday, June 4 in the University of Illinois Extension Office Basement Meeting Room. 26 attendees from various nonprofits and service organizations throughout East Central Illinois shared updates during this professional networking opportunity.

Susan Wilson, Literacy Coordinator for CEFS and President of CASP, opened the meeting and then led the program as well.

Guest presenter was Rose Ruholl with Visiting Angels. Visiting Angels has been in business caring for seniors since 1998. There are over 600 agencies located around the world. Visiting Angel's has won the "America's Choice" award in home care. The Effingham location has been open one year.

Visiting Angels offers self-pay homecare for seniors. All the staff are palliative care certified and are working toward dementia care certification too.

Visiting Angels staff can assist with bathing, grooming, transportation, light housekeeping and more. During the sign up process, clients and homes are assessed so the best possible care can be given.
